Material

LODGE by Hans Kuijten is a hand-tufted rug made of Eucalyptus and New Zealand Wool. The fibers are products of nature and as with all natural products, a slight deviation in texture and colour may occur between dye lots.

Colour

Because of the nature of the quality each rug has its unique colour. The colour may differ and depend on each dye bath. Always avoid direct sunlight. Longer periods of exposure to direct sunlight will damage the rug and lead to discolouring.

Size deviation

Size deviations are up to about 3% possible. Because of the nature of this quality, this product can stretch a little bit.

Features Eucalyptus and New Zealand Wool

Eucalyptus and New Zealand Wool fibers are products of nature and as with all natural products, a slight deviation in texture and colour may occur between dye lots. Where exact colour match is required, please advise our customer service department and we will forward a cutting from actual production for customer approval prior to shipment.

Eucalyptus rugs have some specific features. One of them is the different colour effect that it presents, especially when it is a plain rug. Along the surface of the rug, slight variations of colour occur (similar to what occurs with velvet), which gives a different effect which becomes more evident in lighter rugs. This does not constitute a defect; this is simply a characteristic of these cellulosic raw materials. During the first months it is normal that pilling may occur. This is not a manufacturing defect; it is another common characteristic of this type of fibers. The quantity of pilling will start diminishing after some weeks of use and it does not affect in any aspect the rug's resistance, aspect and quality.

Maintenance

It's important to vacuum the rug often, in order to clean it and also to recover the pile, which might present some height differences due to high people traffic and wear. It's also important that rugs are turned regularly, so that the effects caused by light and normal wear might be equivalent in the whole surface of the rug. When there is furniture placed on the rug exercising pressure, a rug protection can be used so it won't damage the pile and the overall look of the product.

General cleaning

Regular cleaning is essential to maintain the appearance of your rug. Use a good vacuum cleaner, which should have 1200W of power and vacuum in the direction of the pile. Eucalyptus and New Zealand Wool must be cleaned regularly. Naturally, lighter rugs need to be cleaned more often than darker ones. Steam cleaning or any other methods which involve a substantial increase of temperature are not recommended.

- For Eucalyptus rugs it is highly recommended a professional injection-extraction method washing with low temperatures and low-pressure values.
- For New Zealand Wool rugs we recommend water cleaning (water temperature cannot be higher than 30°).
